HANK HAUGE Henry (Hank) Hauge worked his way through the ranks from laborer, concrete finisher, to supervisor. He then started his own contracting company specializing in county and township infrastructure. Henry sold his company when he decided to pursue opportunities that advanced his education and experience.

H

Hank has worked in the concrete industry as a technical service engineer for BASF/ Master Builders Technologies, Lafarge North America, and most recently Strata Corporation. This breadth of experience in chemical admixtures, cement and pozzolans, and production processes allow him a unique perspective on the concrete industry.

MICHELLE L. WILSON is a Director of Concrete Technology at the Portland Cement Association. She has over 20 years of experience relating to concrete materials, specifications, performance, troubleshooting and repair. She is responsible for the development, content, and delivery of PCA's education and training programs and technical products covering the entire spectrum of concrete technology and is co-author of numerous workshops and presentations around North America including World of Concrete, International Builder's Show, and CONAGG/CON-EXPO.

KENNETH M. JUSTICE, P.E. joined the NRMCA in July 2016. His primary objective is implementing strategies that increase the use of the various forms of ready mixed concrete pavement in parking areas, local streets and roads, and other related pavement applications. Mr. Justice is based in the Philadelphia area, and he works with local, regional and state technical and promotion partners to help deliver concrete parking and street paving projects by supporting promotion, design and construction activities as well as provide training and presentations on concrete applications and promotion.
